Art Unit: 2622

1. The IDS's of 09/14/06, 11/08/05 and 01/22/04 have been received, entered and acknowledged.
2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed. Note MPEP 606.01.
3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 4, 7, 10 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Douche et al. (6,005,629 cited by applicant).

The television processing system of Douche (noting Fig. 3) includes a receiving stage 30 (as by satellite or cable) that contains MPEG decoder 32, which further contains internal storage for (at least) buffering, and an additional memory 35. Stage 34 mixes the decoded video data with graphics data from source 33. The combined signal is in turn converted into any of plural formats by stage 27 (col. 4 lines 22-25) and further converted into analog format by stage 28. The signal is ultimately presented for display on a monitor (claimed first output device, col. 4 lines 29-31). A second convertor 37 also receives the decoded video signal (but without the graphics data) and converts into any of plural formats which signal is then converted into analog form by stage 38, which signal is in turn presented to another device (VCR: col. 4 line 33), thereby meeting claims 1, 4 and 12.

As for claim 7, the satellite or cable receiver has an inherent internal tuner and demultiplexing stage associated with the MPED decoder 32.

As for claim 10, Douche includes a D/A convertors 28 and 38, as mentioned above. Convertor stage 37 converts the MPEG-decoded video signal into standard definition (Douche mentions PAL, NTSC and SECAM: col. 4 lines 22-24). The converted signal is formatted into analog form for subsequent recording, as noted previously.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Douche et al.

Although Douche does not expressly state that the initially received video signal is a high-definition signal, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to receive a high-definition signal since such was commonplace at the time of filing, and which MPEG transmission format can readily accommodate, and since Douche points out that conversion results in a standard format signal (PAL, NTSC or SECAM).

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

7. Claims 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 11, 13, 14, 16 and 17 appear allowable over the prior art.
